How Do I Recover my Facebook Login Password?

www.askleo.com

If you've lost your Facebook login password, there are a couple of ways to recover access to your account. Unfortunately, Facebook won't email you your password. But that's a good thing. I would hope that most sites with proper security don't actually know your password. Instead, they just have a way to know that you've typed it in correctly.

You can try two approaches: the official way and the ... well, the not-so-official way. Even if you don't use the not-so-official way, you should know about it because it actually represents a possible security threat.

Facebook login password reset

Just below the login password entry field on Facebook's sign-in page is a link:

Email Password

Keep me logged in Forgot your password?

Click that and you'll be taken to a page containing something like this:

Trouble Accessing Your Account?

Forgot your password? Enter your login email or mobile phone number below and fill the security check. If you use your email, we will send you an email with a link to reset your password. If you use your phone number, we will send you an SMS with a link to reset your password. If you have not confirmed your mobile phone number with us, you cannot use it to reset your password.

Have a confirmation code already?

Enter both words below, separated by a space.

Can't read the words below? Try different words or an audio captcha.

Text in the box:

Email or Mobile Phone:

Continue

If you have a different problem accessing your account, please see our Login Problems Help Page.

The first step is to enter the distorted words presented in the CAPTCHA. This is used to prevent automated hacking attempts by "proving" that you're human.

Then, enter the email address you use to login to Facebook or your mobile phone number as registered in your Facebook account, and press "Continue." Facebook will then ask for final confirmation:

Funny WiFi addresses

Funny WiFi addresses are the new funny answering machine messages.

You all remember when answering machines came out, right? In an era when no one uses the phone anymore (except telemarketers and Robo callers), the wireless network SSID is where you can share your punnery with random neighbors and passers-by.
